The Circulation of The Bulletin

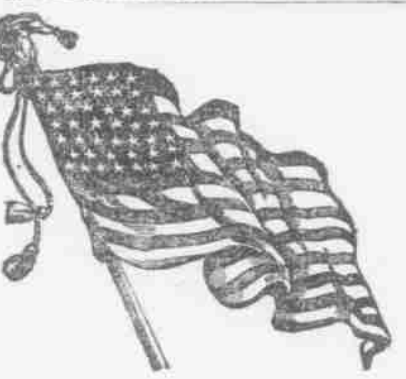

The Bulletin has the largest circulation of any paper in Eastern Connecticut and from three to four times larger than that of any in Norwich. It is delivered to over 8,000 of the 4,053 houses in Norwich and read by ninety-three per cent. of the people. In Windham it is delivered to over 900 houses, in Putnam and Danielson to over 1,100, and in all of these places it is considered the local daily.

Eastern Connecticut has forty-nine towns, one hundred and sixty-five postoffice districts, and sixty rural free delivery routes.

The Bulletin is sold in every town and on all of the R. F. D. routes in Eastern Connecticut.

THE PRESIDENT'S VETO.

President Wilson has not been generous with his vetoes, but when informed of the effects of the provisions in the army appropriation bill dealing with a revision of the articles of war which, as passed by congress, eliminated officers on the retired list from the ordinary military responsibility for their acts and utterances, it was impossible for him to withhold his disapproval of the entire measure.

Such a feature of the bill was against the advice of the war department. It had been impossible to have it eliminated while the bill was in consideration and it is entirely probable that it received little or no attention inasmuch as there were other provisions which called forth the bulk of the consideration. It was, however, too important a disruption of the disciplinary power of the war department to permit it to become a not be allowed to go unchecked and be held up as one of the bits of half-baked legislation.

It was an attempt to weaken the power of the war department much the same as the recent political appeal to prevent the removal of military officers of the New York state national guard who could not pass the health requirements when called into the service of the government. It is unfortunate that such a small part of an important measure makes it necessary to veto the whole bill, but it was advisable action and the passage of the bill with that change made ought not to meet with any serious difficulties.

PESTS AND BLIGHTS.

When it comes to pests if it isn't one thing it is another. It wasn't but a few years ago that the elm trees were being devastated and the loss of some of the most valuable shade trees was suffered. There have been periods when the gray moths and the tent caterpillars have raised havoc with the fruit trees and other vegetation. In addition the army worm has come and gone with disastrous results, while the chestnut trees have been suffering from a blight which has been so thorough that a live chestnut is getting to be a rarity where once they were the commonest of trees.

Now attention is being called to the white pine blister rust which threatens dire results to these valuable trees unless a determined effort is made to check it and fortunately it does not present such a difficult problem as the chestnut tree blight. In Massachusetts, where the rust has been found to have developed worse than in any other state, federal and state efforts are being made to eradicate it and when it is realized that this disease has made it impracticable to grow white pine in certain sections of Europe it can be appreciated that the rust is a serious pest.

Pests and blights are the cause of great trouble and expense but they at the same time cause us to realize the value of taking care of that which we would have like nothing else.

UP TO DEMOCRATS.

The passage of the ship purchase bill comes after a long and hard fight which leaves little of the original measure intact. The legislation has been fought because it was inadvisable and because it is believed against the interests of the country to engage in any such business. The recognition of the fact that the original measure has resulted in numerous modifications and the drawing of the teeth and with these changes it has gone through the senate on a strictly party vote. The administration has succeeded in getting solid support from the democratic senators for such provisions as the measure contains.

Whether this is simply to give prestige to the administration's accomplishments in the way of legislation, under the belief that the shipping bill can do no harm even though it is not possible at this date to do any good in the direction desired, remains to be seen. The changes made prevents the purchase of vessels from belligerent nations, and thus the objection that international complications would arise is overcome. They also provide that the government shall not operate the ships itself unless it finds it impossible to leave them to others and an important requirement placed in the bill is that every ship purchased under the provisions of the measure must show 75 per cent. of its original efficiency.

With these restrictions thrown about the bill, as well as others which have to do with the vessels which are included in the control of the shipping board, the legislation has undergone important alterations and it remains for the democrats to demonstrate that it can accomplish what they claimed it will.

NO ENCOURAGEMENT YET.

With the users of dyes eagerly grasping at the opportunity to secure part of the cargo which was brought to this country by the Deutschland and being sold at advanced prices, there is being disclosed the fact that Germany is ready to resume such trade with this country whenever it is possible. It means that following the war the dyemakers of Europe will be flooding this country with their product. They will be able to demand their price for it and they will be able to drive to the wall such industries as have been established in this country for the manufacture of dyes because this country has been clearly demonstrated. For two years the necessity of investing in this business and give it the protection which would prevent just such a situation.

The need of making this country independent of foreign producers along this line has been clearly demonstrated. For two years the necessity of investing in this business and give it the protection which would prevent just such a situation. The need of making this country independent of foreign producers along this line has been clearly demonstrated. For two years the necessity of investing in this business and give it the protection which would prevent just such a situation.

LEAVE IT WHERE IT IS.

When Senator Borah attempted to have the immigration bill included as a rider in the ship purchase bill, it is indicated that he meant it as an embarrassment for that latter measure rather than an expression of his desire for the passage of the former. He apparently felt that if one piece of such legislation was going to be passed that another should be included. It failed, however, as he doubtless expected and the immigration bill must stand on its own feet as it should.

It is believed that the senator from the west is such an advocate of rider legislation as might be indicated by his action. The immigration bill ought not to be tangled up with anything else. It should be considered and voted upon separately and it will be to the advantage of the country if it gets no further consideration from the present congress.

An attempt to pass the immigration bill which the famous literacy test has been made several times within the past few years. Each time it has met with the same sort of a rebuke. It ought not to be allowed to clog the other and more important matters which need the consideration of both houses of congress at this time. It contains good features but it suffers from the fact that the basis for admission of aliens to this country is unAmerican. Even should congress pass the bill in the haste of the closing days of this session there are good reasons to believe that it would simply result in a veto of the measure by President Wilson even as others have done. Therefore it better not be used to occupy valuable time but permitted to rest in peace where it is.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Every lot up on the battlefields of Europe seems to be a lull before a greater storm.

Even the high price of gasoline has not placed a restraining hand upon the reckless drivers of automobiles.

Our idea of a warm campaign would be to have Senator Sherman and Samuel Gompers running for the same office.

The man on the corner says: No two men are exactly alike, I am told, and that doubtless causes mutual satisfaction.

Portugal has decided to enter the war soon, but that ought not to be sufficient to force the Kaiser to an early cry for peace.

Twelve teachers have sailed from New York for Turkey but if that country holds to its past record it will refuse to be taught.

The increased length of the evenings makes it plain that those who dislike the hot weather will not be forced to complain much longer.

Girl nearly drowns in new style bathing suit, as a headline puts it, shows that some people will do most anything to be in style.

The state secretary having 28 cases of reckless driving to hear this week indicates that reckless driving is being made in the wrong direction in dealing with such auto handlers.

The German commander in the Somme region declares that the allies cannot break through, all of which may be true but they appear to be going ahead nevertheless.

It is to be hoped that the decline in infantile paralysis cases in the metropolis will continue. The innocent have suffered enough from the lax enforcement of sanitary measures.

From the way in which the young men have carried off the honors in the National Rodeo tourney, the idea which some hold that it is an old man's game seems to be successfully dispelled.

No good reason for the appointment of a veterinary surgeon as director of the coast and geodetic survey, except possibly that it was thought wise to have a good horse doctor around in case the donkey shows signs of collapse.

THE CROWNING OF A SYSTEM

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

A good hat should always be kept in its box when not being worn.

Watch all men's winter clothing for matches before putting it away.

Brown bone or ivory rings can be dyed to use on brown fancy work.

One of the best imaginable wall papers is gray Japanese grass cloth.

Mirror frames painted to match the chintz in a bedroom are beautiful.

An old flour sifter can be used to hold the eggs while they are boiling.

Children's tools are often excellent for grown-ups to use in the garden.

Creamed codfish is improved by cheese grated over it before it is baked.

It is wonderful what a looking-glass will do toward cheering up dark corners.

Milk bottles should be filled with cold water the moment they are emptied.

The skirts of old cotton wrappers can be used to cover clothes in the closet.

Grapefruit seeds will grow and make beautiful little trees for table decoration.

A good way to preserve a bridal bouquet is to make a string of beads out of it.

To keep cheese, wrap it in a cloth dipped in vinegar and then cover with waxed paper.

Use ammonia water always instead of soap if you are cleaning white paint. It has the advantage of not dulling the surface.

DRYING THE HAIR.

Artificial heat, such as hot air from a machine, is not very good when used in drying the hair. It is far better to dry it with warm palms of the hand or with warm towels in the winter, or in the warm sunny breeze of the summer.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY.

For tired feet nothing is better than to bathe them every night in soda and warm water, leaving the feet remain in the water until cooled. Dry them with vigorous rubbing, to quicken circulation. If very tender they may be rubbed with equal parts of alcohol and witch hazel.

The only way to keep the skin under the nails and by constant applications of cream and by using an orange wood stick for cleaning. The cleaning should be done only after washing the hands. Use a recipe for a nail cream: Petroleum, one ounce; white castile soap, powdered, six grains; oil of bergamot, three drops.

Buttermilk may be taken with the meals or between them. Most people can consume a greater quantity of buttermilk than sweet milk possibly because the former contains lactic acid, the normal natural acid of the stomach. It does not produce the uncomfortable bloated feeling which compresses many when sweet milk is taken.

In dusting and sweeping about the house wear loose chemises or old kid gloves, which will keep the dirt from getting into the pores of the skin.

EMBROIDERY USED.

Chiffon, Georgette crepe and all other diaphanous materials, whether they are used for gowns or are a part of costumes of silk or cloth, are usually trimmed with embroideries. There is something pleasingly quaint about a bit of embroidery applied to a delicate diaphanous material. Often when used on these airy fabrics the embroidery is quite fancy, but confined to a small space. A great quantity of it would naturally be apt to pull the material out of shape.

Gold and silver embroidery motifs were used on a purple chiffon afternoon gown seen recently, and on a pale gray crepe gown there were embroidered of silver, gray and blue. A white net evening gown was trimmed with embroideries placed on the skirt to catch up the draperies at the side on the tiny sleeves.

DICTATES OF FASHION.

Beige is a satisfactory color for a taffeta gown.

Midnight blue and faded pink is a good combination.

Some of the prettiest silk petticoats imaginable are the corded ones.

With a blue velvet colored chiffon gown a touch of emerald is enchanting.

Some of the suit coats fasten under the arm, just as some dresses do.

The Greek note is seen this season in the immense variety of pleatings.

Some of the prettiest suit coats button only at the waistline and the throat.

Silk gloves are being embroidered in pastel colors to follow the trend of the mode.

There is such a wide divergence in shades that one can wear any length from the short sleeves above the elbow to those that hide the fingers.

Georgette crepe abates in popularity not a jot, for now it can be had in designs as well as in plain colors. It is sheer, but it also has a durability that is remarkable.

While alpaca has been used for suits and traveling coats lately to some extent, it has never been utilized in millinery, so it remained for some clever person to fashion an adorable little turban in white alpaca. This particular chaplain had two bands of rose fallie ribbon that tied in smart little bows in the back.

AGAIN THE HEAD RESTS.

Chair backs and head rests are sure to be reasserting their right to a place in household furnishings. The freest and large upholstered chairs seem to demand something as a protection, which, perhaps, accounts for the revival of chair backs and head rests.

Some of the new chair backs are strips of Russian crash, with a cross-stitch pattern across the bottom. The designs are pine trees, brilliant blues or even baskets of flowers. Others are made entirely of coarse felt crocheted in coarse cotton or raffia twine, either square or oblong in form. All sorts of quaint old patterns are used for the chair backs. They are really old tidies, made smart and up to date.

Head rests of patchwork applique are now being made. These are particularly nice in a bedroom, where a counterpane of patchwork is used. They are also made of coarse felt crochet, and these are appropriate for the living room.

SCRATCHES CURED.

When children and mahogany furniture dwell together under the same roof the former are liable to make "impressions" on the latter. When "my engine ran right into the table leg," or Betty tells how her doll carriage "just went against the corner of the desk," the "dent" is not to be downcast. A piece of wet blotting paper placed over the dent and held there by the pressure of a warm (not hot) iron, will draw the dent out of the wood up into place provided the scar is not too deep. Of course, the polish will be dulled, if the finish is high, but that may be remedied by a little furniture polish.

NEEDLEWORK NOTES.

Rickrack braid is a serviceable and attractive way of finishing children's underwear.

A common drawing compass will prove a convenient addition to the basket for drawing circles of all kinds.

A discarded piano stool is an invaluable asset for the sewing room, as it makes an adaptable chair for the sewing machine or cutting table.

To tighten the sewing machine belt, pour a few drops of castor oil on it when loose, and after running a few minutes the belt will tighten up.

The practical uses to which crochet may be applied seem to be endless. Buttonholes in heavy linen or any material where a buttonhole is required can be worked by means of crochet. Cut the buttonhole the correct size, and then crochet around it with a fine cotton or very fine hosiery. The material is inclined to ravel, the edge may be whipped before crocheting, but if the goods are firm, this is not necessary. This sort of a buttonhole is strong, firm and quickly accomplished. This is an excellent way to make buttonholes in children's undergarments or pique dresses.

To Cure Sunburn.

Sunburn is often extremely painful. In many cases, where a girl has been out in the sun practically all day, the skin blisters and causes very real suffering. It is a wise girl who knows how to care for her own sunburn, for she will save herself a good bit of pain by doing it at once. The burn never hurts the first day and sometimes it does not the second day, but you will certainly feel the pain unless you are careful. Don't wait until the skin begins to itch and smart before you put on a cream, but at the first sign of redness, rub a little of the following cream on the affected area. Usually it starts your doctoring at once. Cocoa butter is excellent to take the sting out of sunburn and witch hazel cream is another fine emollient. Rub either one in well at the first appearance of the burn and then again the next day and you will not be bothered so much by the pain and itch.

TABLE DAMASK.

Partly worn table damask can be made into runners and doilies for breakfast use. The border, which hangs over the table, is in good condition. The center of the cloth is worn. These borders can be used for runners, while the best parts of the centers can be made into square or round doilies.

The doilies should be neatly hemmed and on the right side just above the hem, a fancy stitch, matching the silk sign of the border, should be embroidered. A single button in the same color will make extremely good looking doilies.

The sides of the runner should have a narrow hem, with a row of the fancy stitching on the right side. A deep hem at either end, with a large initial to the center, will give character to the runner.

A breakfast set of this sort could be made in a short time.

CONCERNING WOMEN.

Forty women were recently graduated from the law school of the New York university.

In the war ridden countries women are now taking the place of men as carpenters.

Several of our universities now offer a four years' course in agriculture for women.

Women are now permitted to register as students in the dental school at Columbia university.

Miss Baden-Powell, sister of Gen. Baden-Powell of England, keeps an apirary in her boudoir.

Dr. Annie S. Daniel has had charge of the New York infirmary for women for the last thirty-five years. During that time over 15,000 cases have come under her personal care.

The experiment of training women for work in the United States has been successful. (England) parks has proved satisfactory that their wages have been increased.

Mrs. Richard Wightman invested $15,000 in a New Mexico mine a year ago and today it is worth more than $3,000,000. An investment of $100,000 she went to work in a pair of overalls, and after making her husband president of the company she formed she then made herself general manager of the concern.

SALT AND LEMON.

Ink stains can be removed from goods by covering the spot with salt; squeeze lemon juice over this, and let dry in the hottest sunshine.

ACID FOR INK STAINS.

Ink stains in a carpet, if of long duration, must be treated with oxalic acid.

TWO PRETTY APRONS.

Two pretty aprons were seen the other day, both made out of a length of heavy linen, which can be bought at fifteen or twenty inches wide. In one a hole was cut, through which to slip the head, far enough from one end to reach to the waistline in the back. This end was gathered into a belt (see illustration) and brought around to the front, where it fastens with an embroidered button. The other end, which can be made to reach as far down as desired, is embroidered with colored sprays of flowers. The same design appears near the neck, too. The other apron was round under the arms to form a bib and was fastened with straps that reached from the shoulders and crossed in the back. The raw edges of the apron were finished in an overset stitch of blue, and the straps and bottom of apron were of contrasting material, sprays of flowers embroidered in the blue.

WOMAN SO WEAK COULD NOT SLEEP

Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

North Oxford, Mass.—"I had lost three children and I was all run down and so weak I could not sleep at night. My eyesight would leave me and everything I ate upset my stomach. I was very nervous and if I would start to sleep I would have to stop and lie down before I could finish. I was looking over the paper one day and read of a woman who felt as I did and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, so I took it too. Now I am proud to tell you I am feeling fine and have given birth to a boy baby. He is my 'Pinkham' baby. I keep a bottle of Compound in my home always."—Mrs. FERRER MARCO, Box 54, North Oxford, Mass.

Sleeplessness, indigestion, weakness, and nervousness are symptoms which indicate a lowered vitality of the female organism, and the tonic, strengthening properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs, contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, are just what is needed by every woman who is in Mrs. Marco's condition.

For free advice in regard to any annoying symptom write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

KIDDIES LIKE THESE.

Do you know a youngster who would make a doll? Of course not. Then get to work and embroider a set of the new beanbags which come already stamped and printed and ready for the colored cotton or silk. They come in sets, but may be divided. One is a very chubby little boy in overalls, the other his little sister in pinafore and sunbonnet. The doll has a face embroidered, then stitched together, back and front, with a small opening left for the beans to be poured in. This is made up in a bag of suitable kind, except the fin which some loving auntie, real or adopted, gets out of surprising a wide-eyed boy or girl. These bags have the added advantage however, of serving as dolls.

RECIPES.

Cherry Pudding.—Take two eggs, one cup of milk, two and one-half cups of flour, three-quarters of a cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of butter, half a teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of baking powder, and one pound of cherries, stoned. Separate the eggs, beat the yolks until light, adding the butter, salt, flour and baking powder. Beat well, then fold in the well-beaten whites. Mix this, then put a layer of it in a well-buttered dish or mold, then a layer of cherries, then a layer of the batter, and so on until all is used, having batter on the top. Sprinkle with granulated sugar and bake thirty minutes in a hot oven. Serve with the following sauce: Take a pint of milk, two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour, half a cup of sugar, flavor with vanilla or orange, and one tablespoonful of butter. To serve, lift the pudding into the dishes, pour over it the sauce and place a tablespoonful of hard sauce on top. Half a cup of sugar, worked in cream with three tablespoonfuls of the butter, work until good and creamy, add four tablespoonfuls of finely minced cherries.

Green Peppers Stuffed.—Two green peppers, two cups chopped beef, half cup mayonnaise or bottled dressing and two tablespoonfuls chopped green pepper, four cups shredded lettuce. Put the peppers in a bowl and fill with dressing. Wash the pepper, cut off the stem ends, remove seeds and white fibers; then fill pepper. Set in cold place several hours. With sharp knife cut each pepper in four thick slices. Carefully lay the slices on a bed of lettuce. Serve with French dressing.

POLITICAL.

And Wilson Won't "Butt-in."—Six hundred United States soldiers of America fallen in the estimation of Mexicans that "Americans living in Chihuahua and other cities in northern Mexico are winning small English flags to ward off insults to themselves and their nationality, according to a report brought here from Mexico, says a dispatch from Columbus, N. M.

This is the result of the Woodrow Wilson policy of watchful waiting, of temporizing with bandits, of going in drawing a blank, of changing his mind, of "butting-in" where he has no business and refraining from vigorous action when conditions call for it.

With over 100,000 soldiers in the aid of a loyal nation at his back, Mr. Wilson has no other protection for Americans rightfully in Mexico than to urge them to come away. And so they have to place themselves under the protection of a foreign flag. The Mexicans will spit on the American flag. They do not dare to insult the emblem of the British.

Was humiliation ever greater for citizens of the United States? Will nothing Mar this self-styled president of humanity to comprehension of his duties as president of the United States?—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

The Clayton act, which was pushed through congress after a good deal of tinkering as part of an Administrative program, is a conspicuous example of crude legislation which will have to be done over or wholly eliminated in the course of time.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

Wallingford.—A special town meeting voted to call the new town high school the Lyman Hall school, after the town's illustrious son, and signer of the Declaration of Independence. It was also voted to have a bronze memorial tablet for the late Lyman Hall set in the new building.

OTHER VIEW POINTS
Senator McLean has not been a partisan. He has served the whole nation and the whole state. No criticism comes from any quarter, but only praise for the excellent service he has rendered. He has held the United States senatorship of Connecticut at that high plane to which his predecessors raised it. That much in the present matter of politics is distasteful to him we may easily believe, but he has kept himself above politics, and will continue to do so. He should accept the re-election which the state will gladly give him, and complete his envelope record at Washington.—New Haven Record.

The Hartford Courant would like to see a list of those who are backing the movement for one cent letter postage. For the edification of the Hartford Courant we publish the list, which is as follows:

Postmaster General Burleson.
Unlike the Hartford Courant we are not inclined to believe that it is a scheme by large and wealthy concerns to lessen the postage bills, but was conceived wholly by that brilliant cabinet member, Mr. Burleson, to keep up the fool and idiot vote that is gullible enough to swallow almost anything.—Rockville Journal.
